

InfoMap displays all discretionary permit projects currently being processed by the Community Development Department. This can include minor projects, such as the construction of a new single-family residence, as well as larger mixed use development projects.

Map Legend

The colored markers on the map represent the three major phases in the permitting cycle:

- projects that are currently under review are shown in red ●;
- projects approved by the City are shown in green ●; and
- projects for which a building permit has been issued or are under construction are shown in blue ●.

Large commercial projects that are more than 10,000 square feet in size and residential projects with more than 10 units are shown with a larger marker:

- under review are shown in red ●;
- approved are shown in green ●; and
- building permit issued or under construction are shown in blue ●.

Billboard and tall wall image applications are shown in yellow ●.

InfoWindow

When a user clicks on a point on the map, a window with information pops up that provides details about the project. This info includes the project address, project description, applicant and/or business contact name, planning application number, the assigned project planner, and additional project-related information. The map allows users to click on the project planner's name to automatically send them an email to inquire about the project or to provide comments.

Updates

The information on the map will be updated monthly and refinements to the map's layout and design will be made periodically to improve usability and accessibility.
